- an introduction to Stories of Inspiration, a video catalog of real-world stories to engage K-12 students;
- an in-depth look into the Brown v. Board of Education Supreme Court case and ways to teach it in the classroom;
- embedding African American history within K-5 science and mathematics curriculum;
- discussions centered on Florida's new resiliency standards and what it means to persevere; and
- a review of what it takes for districts to earn an Exemplary School District Designation from the African American History Task Force.

No participant pre-registration is required. All participants are encouraged to use the link above to join the institute on Thursday, August 8. For more information, please visit <https://afroamfl.org/> or contact socialstudies@fldoe.org.
